

I do not think that xm radio or any other satilite provider should be limited in their content. We as subscribers pay for this service and have the right to what ever services they would like to offer. The goverment should not get involved in business activities like these.

Shane Cunningham